DEATH IN A CYCLONE.

Five Killed and Others Injured at Kunkle, Ohio.

A Furious Storm Which Swept Over Ohio Capping Death and Destruction in Its Path.

Kunkle, Ohio, May 18—A cyclone passed one-fourth of a mile west of here at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, killing five persons, fatally injuring two others and slightly wounding several more.

The dead: Daniel Barrett, right leg broken, arm torn off and internally injured; Mrs. Daniel Barrett, legs torn from the body and entrails torn out; Martha Daso, head crushed; George Oxinger, body beaten into a shapeless mass.

Injured: Myrta Daso, Charles Cole, fatally hurt internally; Mrs. Charles Cole, head crushed, will die; Jennie Creek, head crushed, will recover.

Houses, fences, trees and obstructions of all kinds in the path of the storm have been carried away and nothing is left to mark the spot where they stood except huge holes in the ground.

The building in which Daniel Barrett, his wife and their granddaughters, Myrta and Martha Daso, was so completely demolished that not even a stone of the foundation is left. The house was carried 100 yards before it stood. Mrs. Barrett, who was worst mangled, was carried over a quarter of a mile and dropped in a cemetery. Her dismembered limbs were found 100 yards further on. Very little was left of the woman's body. The breast and abdomen were in tatters, and the entrails, lungs and heart were scattered through three 45-acre fields.

Daniel Barrett had his hand torn off at the wrist and scattered to the winds, and one leg was beaten into a pulp.

George Oxinger, a hired hand of Barrett, saw the storm coming and made for the barn. He got the horses inside and started for the house when the storm lifted him from the ground and whirled him into the air a hundred feet, together with timbers, fences, trees and other debris, scooped up in the rolling avalanche. The lifeless body was found a hundred rods from where it struck. The bones protruded from the flesh.

Alliance, Ohio, May 18.—The worst storm experienced in this part of the state in years struck this city at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and for half an hour wrapped the city in nearly total darkness. The velocity of the wind was over sixty miles an hour, and hundreds of shade trees and chimneys about the town went down before it. The heavy iron cornice front on the Coates block, one of the largest buildings in the city, and part of the roof were blown to Main street. Several persons standing in the store doors of the building had narrow escapes from being crushed by the falling debris. Lightning destroyed the Central Union Telephone exchange and burned out every telephone in the city. Several small fires were started by the burning telephones, but were extinguished without much damage.

For a distance of two miles west of Louisville, this county, every telegraph pole along the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway was blown flat on the track. The railroad officials had to abandon the north main track of the line and use only one track for all trains until 9 o'clock last evening. On the approach of the storm many citizens of this place ran from their houses into cellars and to more secure shelter, fearing a cyclone. Reports coming in from the surrounding country indicate big damage to farm properties from the storm. So far as can be learned no fatalities occurred during the storm.

Peru, Ind., May 18.—Reports from the country show great destruction by last night's storm. South of this city a large brick school house and five barns were levelled, with smaller buildings, trees and fences. In the city a large flour mill was unroofed and great damage done to trees and smaller buildings. The Lake Erie night train experienced great trouble with fallen trees. The storm was the worst in years. No loss of life has been reported.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 18.—A furious gale from the northward is raging on Lake Michigan today and a tremendous sea is running into the bay. Five vessels are at anchor under the government breakwater and, with the exception of the C. C. Barnes, which is rapidly drifting towards the beach, will weather the storm. The Barnes is in great danger of drifting on top of the sunken schooner, M. J. Cummings, just south of the harbor. The Cummings entered the bay at about 3 o'clock and dropped her anchors off Michigan street, but they failed to hold and the vessel drifted southward and shoreward until she reached the breakers, when she evidently filled through her cabin and forecastle and went down in twenty feet of water about 3 o'clock. The crew took to the rigging, but people on shore say they saw two men swept over the stern of the schooner when she went down. The life saving crew went out into the lake and drifted down to the wreck of the Cummings, but it is impossible to say whether any of the crew were taken aboard. Some were seen to make their way down the rat lines as the life boat approached, but the spoon-drift hid the rescuers from view just at the critical moment when the men might have been rescued. A huge wave then swept along and carried the life-boat with its brave crew of rescuers toward Bay View, when they were drawn into the breakers and capsized. It is not known how the crew fared. An unknown vessel foundered off White Fish Bay at an early hour this morning and a small craft is high and dry on South Point, south of Bay View. In the city trees were blown down, light structures uncorked and many signs torn from their fastenings.

Later reports from the scene of the wreck state that there were no lives lost by the sinking of the Cummings. The crew is still in the rigging together with one of the life saving crew who went into the rigging of the wreck to make a line fast. Before anything could be done the line parted and the would-be rescuers was left to the fate of the Cummings crew, while the life boat drifted off into the breakers.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 18.—Word reaches the city this afternoon that four unknown vessels are on the beach between South Milwaukee and Racine.

2:30 p. m.—The life saving crew managed to reach shore safely at Bay View by clinging to the boat, which was washed high and dry. They returned to the station immediately and will take other measures to rescue the imprisoned crew of the Cummings, one of whom is a woman, the steward's wife of the ill-fated craft. The Racine life boat and crew are coming on a special train to rescue the crew of the schooner Cummings. The Milwaukee life boat was disabled when it capsized in the breakers and two of the crew are prostrated by exposure and injuries received when they struck the beach. A tug is in readiness to convey the Racine life boat to the wreck. The C. C. Barnes is rapidly approaching the beach and it is only a matter of a short time when she will fetch up on the sand.

Chicago, May 18.—The storm which began yesterday and raged today is the worst this city of Lake Michigan has seen this spring. Scores of vessels from other ports lay in the harbor all day unable to make their way into the river for the high seas and adverse winds. Eleven fishermen spent the night on the government pier, and all but one were rescued thoroughly frightened but not injured today.

Their yawl boat had been torn away from its moorings and drifted out into the lake, leaving them without means of escape. One of them, Tom Sidlos, a sailor, was washed off the pier and lost. The others were rescued by the lifesaving crew. The crew was kept busy all day and made numerous rescues of fishermen, who were out in small boats or storm bound on the pier.

Hebronsburg, Wis., May 18.—A severe storm accompanied by a terrific wind struck this city today. The three-masted schooner, Surprise, of Chicago, lies in Lake Michigan one and a half miles off this city yesterday in a leaky condition. If her anchor chains break she will be wrecked on the beach. Telephone, electric light and telegraph wires were blown down, small buildings wrecked, and several people injured by flying debris.

FLINT GLASS TRUST FORMED.

Fox Brothers, of Chicago, to Act as Distributing Agents.

Muncie, Ind., May 18.—Indiana flint glass manufacturers have perfected a combination and contracted with Fox Bros., glass brokers of Chicago, to take the product of the several factories. In other words, this firm will dispose of the stock of all the factories at a regulated price. The factories are located at Peru, Dunkirk, Frankton, Muncie, Anderson, Fairmount and Alexandria. The trade has been running some of the factories out the throats of their competitors, so there was no business for any one at a paying margin. As it now is, all stock will be on an equality and will demand a regulated price. This is the identical step the Indiana Window Glass Manufacturers' association is endeavoring to take and several meetings have been held in Muncie recently for that purpose. It will very likely soon succeed. Fox Bros. are the protective agents for the Window Glass Manufacturers' association also.

MURDERERS ARRESTED.

William Cochran and Logan Hodges Captured Near Vincennes, Ind.

Washington, Ind., May 18.—Yesterday the sheriff of this county and ten special policemen from Vincennes arrested William Cochran and Logan Hodges, the car thieves and supposed murderers of Claude Mollpin. They broke jail here over a week ago, and had been hiding near Vincennes. They were lodged in jail in this city this morning. They were captured while at breakfast and offered no resistance, although armed with corn knives and revolvers.

America's First Postoffice.

Garden City, May 18.—The celebration at Roscoe cottage by the Society of Colonial Daughters of the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the first postoffice in America today was a notable affair.

Snow in Michigan.

Gaylord, Mich., May 18.—A blizzard has prevailed here since early this morning. Snow covers the ground, but as the weather is not cold crops may not be injured, although they are unusually advanced.

Pottlitzer Bros. received a telegram from Lafayette this afternoon, which stated that the citizens were expecting a large crowd from Fort Wayne at the annual meeting of the Traveling Protective association, which meets tomorrow in that city.

DR. MEYER GUILTY.

The Poisoner of Brandt is Convicted of Murder

By the Jury at New York and His Punishment is Imprisonment for Life.

New York, May 18.—The jury in the case of Dr. Henry C. F. Meyer, who is charged with poisoning Ludwig Brandt, has returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. The penalty is imprisonment for life.

When Dr. Meyer was brought into court, just before the hour for opening, his face had the same yellow, sickly hue as it had always shown, and there was a look of sleeplessness in his eyes. To questions of a reporter he, however, spoke up quite cheerfully, saying "good morning" in the most matter of fact voice.

"Did you sleep well last night?" was asked.

"No; I did not have much time to sleep," was the reply. "But I slept all right. I did not see my wife; she is in another department of the prison, you know," he added in explanation.

Shortly afterwards Mr. O'Sullivan and Mr. Brooke, counsel for Dr. Meyer, arrived. Then the jury filed into the court room and took their seats in the jury box. Recorder Smyth entered at almost at the same moment and Clerk Penny called out the names of the jurymen.

While this was going on, Meyer walked leisurely up to the center of the court room and took his usual seat in the midst of his counsel. He did not exhibit any sign of having heard that the jury had agreed on a verdict.

"Gentlemen, have you agreed on a verdict?" asked Clerk Penny.

"We have," replied Foreman John W. Wereske.

"How say you, was the prisoner, Henry C. Meyer, guilty or not guilty?"

Meyer, who in accordance with the rules of the court, was standing facing the jurymen, furtively scanned their faces, as if anxious to read their thoughts and his fate, almost before the ominous words could fall from the foreman's lips. Foreman Wereske hesitated a moment and looked toward the recorder, evidently not wishing to look at the unfortunate prisoner. Then he said:

"We find him guilty of murder in the second degree."

The moment these words were uttered a confused murmur was heard throughout the court room and Meyer sat down on his chair absolutely crestfallen. His hands twitched nervously and his whole appearance showed plainly that he was disappointed at the result. Mr. Brooke made a motion for a new trial and the recorder gave him two weeks to file his reasons. This will not act as a stay of sentence, and Meyer will probably receive his banishment for life in the beginning of June. He was taken back to the tombs prison.

THE COURTS.

Suits Begun and on Trial in the Different Tribunals.

Henry Feasner and Frederick Schafer have been licensed to wed.

James T. Hamm brings an action for $1,500 on a note against A. C. Trentman. Bross & Morris are attorneys for the plaintiff.

G. E. Everett, through his attorney, C. W. Kuhne, sues Andrew Hamm and wife for foreclosure of a mortgage.

The Saengerbund Building and Loan association have filed articles of association with County Recorder Pickel, capital $150,000. Peter Nussbaum is president.

Justice Ryan is engaged in hearing a nuisance case brought by Fred Franke against Mr. and Mrs. Roma.

Mary G. Bass has had Viola Clay arrested for provoke. The parties are colored people and Justice Ryan will hear their stories.

Edward Remy was fined yesterday by Justice Wilkinson for viciously assaulting an old man.

In the superior court Joseph Goldsmith and others have entered suit against Isaac Long, on a note and account, the debt being $6,050.50; J. M. Robinson is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Yesterday afternoon in Justice Ryan's court, George McDowall, of Sheldon, was fined in two cases for assault and battery and a surety of the peace case. The action was brought by his brother, William McDowall, who says he was beaten over the head with a rock yoke. The case cost McDowall $60.

G. K. Johnson, who assaulted Will McNutt with a motor lever Wednesday afternoon, was placed on trial in Justice Ryan's court yesterday afternoon. He was fined $2 and costs. McNutt and Philip Blaising, who answered to complaints of assault and battery, were discharged. McNutt's injuries are not as serious as at first believed.

GRAND OFFICERS.

John T. Leach, of This City, Honored at the State Meeting.

Indianapolis, May 18.—The grand lodge I. O. O. F. of Indiana has nominated the following candidates for grand officers, which are equivalent to elections in November: Grand master M. A. Chipman, Anderson; deputy grand master, C. F. Northern, Greensburg; grand warden, R. J. Loveland, Peru; G. L. Reinhard, Indianapolis; Philip Schleiter, Evansville; Samuel O. Haines, Muncie; Marcus R. Sulzer, Madison; John T. Leach, Fort Wayne; M. H. Chappell, Knightstown; C. E. Rabush, Indianapolis; U. H. Hoss, Paoli; J. E. Edmonson, Bloomington; H. G. Thayer, Plymouth; grand secretary, R. F. Foster, Indianapolis; grand treasurer, James A. Wildman, Indianapolis; grand representative to sovereign grand lodge, W. H. Talbott, Greensburg; trustee of grand lodge, John A. Ferguson, Indianapolis.

STRIKE RIOTS.

The Illinois Mining District in a Disturbed State.

Strikers Attack Workmen and Drive Them From the Mines—Two Men Injured.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—The striking coal miners have gained an important point, causing the abandonment of work in several mines near Belleville, Ill., which were being operated by the owners and families. Committees of strikers waited on the operators of the Murphy, Bruggeman and Klingenfus mines and obtained promises from each to discontinue work. These mines have supplied local manufactories and several suspensions may follow. The Harrison Machine works, among the foremost industries in Belleville, is dependent upon the Murphy mine for fuel. Striking miners also assembled at Coulterville, Ill., today and by threats, firing of pistols, and beating a miner named Heinrich severely, frightening off the miners who went to work yesterday. As a result the mines are again idle. At Gillespie, Ill., all the coal miners returned to work yesterday, and today strikers from Mr. Oliver came over to drive them out again. The coal company was advised in time and warned their men not to work today. The strikers were thereby partially foiled, but attempted a house to house canvass, during which they severely beat John Link, who refused to assent to their persuasion. The visitors were nearly all drunk, and everyone carried a club.

POSSIBLY IDENTIFIED.

The Dead Tailor Said to be From Arkansas.

A Young Man Who Claims to Know Him Says That His Name is "Billy" Martin.

The tramp tailor killed by a Pennsylvania freight train, yesterday morning, still lies unclaimed at Pelton's morgue. Last evening Jack Martin, a tailor employed by Schenk, called at the Morgue and, after taking a careful view of the remains, said that he believed the dead man was "Billy" Martin, of Pine Bluff, Ark. He is no relation to Jack, however, and the reason he thinks he knows the man is the fact that he saw him at Canton, Ohio, some time ago. The dead man has two fingers off the left hand and this led to his being sometimes called "Three Fingered Jack." The man was well known in this and southern states and was very fond of liquor. Martin also worked at Urbana, Ohio. He was at one time a member of the Tailors' union. Undertaker Pelton has telegraphed to Pine Bluffs to endeavor and learn if the dead man is really Martin. At the present writing he has received no reply to the message.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

Yesterday afternoon at the St. Joe hospital occurred the death of Edward Fuller, of hemorrhage of the stomach. The deceased was thirty-three years of age and worked at Montpelier, Ind., in the oil fields. His family live at Sidney, Ohio, and his wife was in the city last evening to accompany the body to Sidney for interment. English came here for medical treatment.

POSTMASTER ROCKHILL

Talking With Congressman McNagny About Politics.

Washington, May 18.—W. Rockhill, of Fort Wayne, postmaster and editor of the Journal, is here, conferring with Representative McNagny about democratic prospects in the Twelfth Indiana district.

A Fine Train.

Tomorrow morning at 6 o'clock the Commercial Travelers' special train will leave the Wabash depot for Lafayette, carrying the Fort Wayne post, T. P. A., and its friends to the state convention. The Wabash will give the "boys" a train consisting of all vestibuled palace coaches and a dining car, serving breakfast en route. This will be the finest special train that has gone out of Fort Wayne on any road in many years. The City band will accompany it and the Lafayette boys will meet Fort Wayne with its celebrated band, will take the head of the column in the grand street parade. The "boys" extend a cordial invitation to their friends to join them. The special train will depart from Lafayette returning at 11 o'clock p. m., but if there are any of the excursionists who would like to remain over, their tickets will be good for the homeward journey on regular trains of the next day. This will indeed be a happy outing. Round trip tickets, $3.20.

Salt of Tools.

I near salt these Chickering, Haines Brothers, Fischer, Baldwin, and Ellington pianos for sale prices at once. If we can't sell you, I can't intrude them to some one for a "Kimball" that I can sell. See them at the Arcade.

Death of a Detective.

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—Detective Harris, shot by Bobbor Azoff at Boulder, Tuesday night, died at midnight in Alameda, from the effects of his wounds. All efforts to discover the whereabouts of the robber or his confederates, have proved unavailing.

DEATH OF A TRAMP.

His Foster Father Refuses to Pay the Expense of His Burial

And the Corpse Is Floated in Pickle for the Dissection Table of the Fort Wayne Medical College.

At the next term of the Fort Wayne Medical college the students of that institution will have an opportunity to study the anatomy of a tramp, for one of the subjects on the dissection table will be the pickled body of Louis Mette, a young vagrant, who, after his arrest and incarceration in the county jail, took sick and was removed to the St. Joseph hospital, where he died last Saturday evening, and as nothing concerning his death, not even a two line mention of the fact, has appeared in any of the papers in this city, The Sentinel will today give the particulars and add to them a story which tells how, even in death when the veil of charity ought, to some extent at least, to be thrown around the mistakes and sins of life, those who are bound to the dead by ties of duty can spurn forgiveness and refuse to give the corpse even a pauper's burial.

On Saturday the 5th of this month, Mette, who had been tramping over the country under the alias of Fred Snyder, was arrested near the Wabash round house in this city, with several other tramps, for having been engaged in a drunken fight. He was taken to the police station and, on the charge of vagrancy, sent to the county jail by Police Judge Franse for sixteen days. Soon after being placed behind the bars he was taken sick and removed to the hospital department of the jail. When almost too late to do him any good Dr. George C. Stemen was called, but the long respite of the patient and his exposure had planted the seeds of death, and medical skill could not battle them. Last Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock he was taken to the St. Joseph hospital and placed in care of the kind sisters there, but although given every attention, he died within an hour after his admission.

He had told during his illness some points about his life. He had said that his foster father was Louis Matte, of Chattsworth, Ill., with whom he lived from infancy. Unkindness, he said, had driven him from home and for several years he had been leading a tramp's life. He was, at the time of his death, only eighteen years of age, and the attendants during his sickness say he was not very bright.

Immediately after his death Dr. Stemen telegraphed to his foster father, Louis Matte, at Chattsworth, asking what disposition should be made of the body. Matte's reply was handed to Mr. Matte, who read it, but refused to pay the charges, thirty-five cents, or to send a reply, and when this fact became known here to the hospital authorities the body of the dead tramp was turned over to the undertakers and by him, on account of the absolute refusal, to the Fort Wayne Medical college, who immediately placed it in pickle for use upon their dissection tables next winter.

The news of young Matte's death and the sending of the telegram and the refusal of the foster father to receive it, reached here in a round about way. Clarence H. Smith, the editor of the Plaindealer of that city, sent the following letter of inquiry to this city:

Chattsworth, Ill., May 14.

Dr. G. B. Stemen, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dear Sir:—I take the liberty I take in addressing you, but, under the circumstances, I think you will see the propriety of the right. I have just telegram to Louis Matte, of this city, announcing the death of his foster son in the hospital at your city, was not received by him, because he refused to receive it.

This case is an interesting one, and it is quite the general opinion that had the boy been properly treated he might have seen a bright future. He was taken when quite an infant, but, owing to abuse, he ran away from home and for the last few years has visited his friends in this city only at intervals. He never committed any crimes, to my knowledge, but was always full of life and rather mischievous; however, he has many friends and I guess no enemies, except his foster father.

If it is not asking too much, I would be glad to have you write me a short sketch of how the boy came to be in the hospital, when he died, and anything you may think would be of interest to his friends here. Thanking you, in advance, for your kindness, I am, Yours respectfully,

Chauncey H. Smith

In reply to this letter Dr. Stemen wrote as follows:

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 15, 1894.

Chauncey H. Smith, Esq., Chattsworth, Ill.

Dear Sir:—Your letter of May 14th received and in reply to your inquiries concerning the unfortunate young man, Louis Mette, alias Fred Snyder, I can only say that he was sent to our county jail under the charge of vagrancy, and while there was taken sick with hemorrhage from the lungs.

We had him removed to the hospital department of the jail, but seeing that he was growing worse, and that his case was of a very serious character, we had him removed to the St. Joseph hospital, where he could receive better care, but he lived only a short time after he was admitted.

He had all the attention that could be given him under the circumstances, but his death, no doubt, was due to exposure, and as we believe, tuberculosis. We never made any special statements in regard to his friends, only about the address of his father. He was delirious most of the time after we were called to treat him.

We trust this will be of some satisfaction to you and to his friends.

Yours very truly,

C. B. Stemen.

The St. Joseph hospital are also in receipt of a letter from the priest of the Catholic church at Chatsworth asking for information about the death of the young man and such facts as the hospital authorities know have been forwarded.

A Sentinel reporter called last evening at the hospital and was told by one of the sisters that they knew practically nothing about the young man. She said that he was brought there about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. He was dirty and filthy, and, after giving him a bath, he was put to bed. Some medicine were administered, but he died within an hour, from a terrible hemorrhage, having only spoken a very few words to the attendants.

THE NEW SHOPS.

The Benefits That Would Result to Fort Wayne by Reason of Location There in This City.

The building of a railroad and of the shops necessary for its construction, equipment and operation, are matters of business investment, purely. There is no sentiment in the transaction whatever; it is entirely a question of dollars and cents. The investor looks wholly to what will be of the greatest advantage to him, financially. He is guided solely by that one rule. The locality holding out the greatest inducement to him, from a business point of view, will be the one he will select for his investment. Where the divisional terminii and the repair shops of the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad shall be located, depends entirely upon that self-evident axiom. Fort Wayne must have them. They mean an increased population; an increased demand for the labor of the unemployed; an increased local circulation of money; an increased value of real estate; and an increased number to bear the general burden of taxation; and finally, a hundred benefits to each and all of us in many ways, too numerous to mention here. To secure them we must hold out to the promoters such inducements as will convince them that, as a matter of business, it will pay them to come to Fort Wayne above all other places. The most obvious mode to secure these benefits is to vote the proposed tax, for in no other certain manner can we secure the road and shops.

Not many years ago, the ground upon which Fort Wayne stands today was worthless; a few years later Uncle Sam sold it for $1.25 per acre. Land is no better than it was then, and yet it would require many thousand dollars now to buy a single acre. After Uncle Sam sold it people began coming here. Every new settler added to its value, and finally as large a population had gathered here that the land became too valuable for agricultural purposes. As the population increased, all values increased. When we stand still all values will stand still; there will be no demand for unoccupied lots; vacant houses will remain vacant; the unemployed will remove to more enterprising localities, and we will settle down to that dreamy monotony of wasted energy and frayed out ambition.

The live and prosperous cities of the country are those which, as a matter of business, hold out such inducements to manufactories and industrial institutions as will secure their location. Indianapolis is a prodigy in growth, and because she is the capital, but because by enterprise and real business sagacity she has made herself a railroad center. A multiplicity of railroads means competition in transportation and therefore reduced rates. That brings factories, and these, with the railroads, bring increased population and, therefore, increased values and increased prosperity. The geographical situation of Fort Wayne, added to her natural resources, augers well for the future. They are conducive and necessary to the making of a large city. But the richest soil will not produce wheat for that reason alone. It must be cultivated and planted and otherwise artificially aided. Nature has "pressed the button" and we must do the rest.

Let us get a "move" on ourselves. Suppose our taxes are slightly increased, if the property, upon which we pay them, is doubled, tripled, yea, even quadrupled in value we will surely follow. We cannot afford to be slow, let us not only keep up with the procession, but bother—let us ride next to the band wagon. Let us be so earnest and energetic that the new railroad and its shops cannot escape us. We are built to live in dollars and cents if we listen to the "crookers."

AT OUR GATES!

Gen. Randall Leads His Army.

The Mayor and Supt. Liggett Head the Parade.

They Will Go Into Camp at Centlivre's Park.

The Tender Unfeet of the City Will See That They Are Fed—Will Stay Here Over Sunday and Go To Decatur.

General Randall and his 240 soldiers of the peaceful revolution pulled up stakes at 3:30 this morning and left Columbia City for Fort Wayne.

Immediately upon starting the general telephoned to his wife in this city, who patiently waited at the telephone station for word from the advancing host. The general told his wife that if nothing happened the army would Arrive at five o'clock.

GENERAL RANDALL.

The general also said that he had fully determined to remain here over Sunday. Arrangements have been fully completed with the Messrs. Centlivre and the army will go into camp in the Centlivre park. Those who have seen the men say they are above the average of mendicants and, although weary and footsore, are a fairly good natured set of travelers.

The Officers.

General Randall is a slight, dark whiskered man, quite intelligent, and wears a big sombrero and leggins. The general is fifty-four years of age and was born in Rochester, N. Y. He is a self made man and was engaged in various peaceful pursuits in the east until he went to Chicago ten years ago. During the war the general was a cavalry man and served with credit to himself and his country. He has been connected with various newspaper enterprises over the country and has always been a close student and somewhat of a labor leader. He was at one time editor and proprietor of the Jamestown, N. Y., "Advocate." He also published the Rubin, Ill., "Legal Tender," associated with Frank H. Lake. Of these two gentlemen were with the Chicago "Express" and when Heath died Randall was made editor. He was next editor of the Trades and Labor paper "The Assembly Herald." The general was also editor of a paper at Pittsfield, Ill., called the "Advocate."

His Staff.

The general's staff is composed of Colonel Hoffer, who is the commissary and rides at the head of the column; Adjutant Holmes, a small man, who claims to be a college graduate, and Chief Surgeon Shafer, who is well known in Fort Wayne and who was a former lecturer at Taylor university.

Lost Their Way.

Between Warsaw and Pierceton yesterday the commonwealers lost their way on a cross road, but a farmer put them right. They left camp at 5:30 a. m. and were twelve hours on the road. At Pierceton General Randall stopped to make a speech and collected enough provisions to give the men a light lunch. Last night the army camped on the fair grounds at Columbia City. The members of the county board declined to feed them for supper and breakfast, conditional on their moving in the morning. The army got under way this morning in good shape, well pleased with their treatment by the Columbia City people, who supplied them with 250 loaves of bread, 150 pounds of beef, 25 pounds of beans and 10 pounds of coffee.

Mayor Oakley Takes Charge.

Mayor Oakley was asked this morning what the city had decided to do in the matter of receiving the commonwealers. He said:

"The city has decided to allow the men to camp at Centlivre park tonight, but will make every effort to have them go on their way early in the morning. We will not adopt radical measures, however, and will endeavor to get rid of the army as soon as possible."

Will Be Met.

"Superintendent Liggett, of the police force, and myself," continued the mayor, "will ride out in a buggy and meet the army two miles west of the Bass farm on the Illinois road. We will then escort them into the edge of the city. We will make an earnest effort to induce General Randall to go to his camping grounds at the Centlivre park without coming through the center of the city. The line of march which we have decided to take is as follows: Enter the city on Spring street; thence one block north to Huffman street; east on Huffman to Webster; east on Wells to Sixth street, crossing the Spy Run bridge north of the pumping station; then onto Spy Run avenue and north to the park.

"In case General Randall insists on coming down town we will be compelled to allow him to do so, provided none of the army are ill with contagious diseases."

Will Go to Decatur.

It is understood from Mrs. Randall that the army will go from here to Decatur and if this is the case the commonwealers will be compelled to come down through the city to cross over to the Pigeon road. Mrs. Randall stated to a reporter that she hardly looked for the army to reach here before 5:30 or 6 o'clock.

The General Arrives.

At 1 o'clock General Randall and Surgeon Frank Schaefer arrived in this city in a buggy drawn by two fast horses. The general and his staff surgeon were hungry, and as the army gets nothing to eat until they arrive here those two men came on. They were both seen at Oscar Wolfcoek's restaurant where they were stowing away food at an alarming rate.

The General Talks.

General Randall said: "We left the army eight and one-half miles west of here just before noon. The men were all in good condition and were traveling at the rate of about four miles per hour. They stopped to rest at noon, and, although they had breakfast, they will get no dinner. We will come down street with our flags flying, for our cause is a right-eous one. We have a fine lot of men. They are a trifle footsore and hungry, but none of them are sick. We have nineteen officers on our irregular staff, the army is now in command of Col. Hoffer. We have an artistic outfit. The press of Chicago presented us all red, white and blue umbrellas to ward off the sun and we have a lot of flags and a fine banner six feet wide containing the words:

"I will."

General Randall further stated that he would charge no admission to the park, but those who wished could contribute to the cause. He will deliver an address this evening on the Coxey movement and another tomorrow evening. The army has a fine glee club.

Mayor Oakley and Sheriff Clausmeier at once called on the general and his chief surgeon and arranged for a conference at the city hall. At this meeting it was decided by the authorities to allow the army to come down Main street and make as big a display as they care to.

Southern Kaiser.

This morning a committee from the labor unions raised in two hours' time a credit amount to $100 in cash and supplies. This will insure the army two good meals at least.

Went Right Back.

As soon as the conference was over Randall and Shafer at once took their team and went back to join the army.

Wants Recruits.

Just before he left General Randall said to a Sentinel reporter that he would take in some good, honest recruits if they cared to join. The general may speak to the laboring men somewhere in the city tonight.

Will Detail Police.

Two policemen will be detailed to go out and guard the Centlivre brewery and maintain order. The army will sleep in the sheds at the park and under their six tents. Two or three of the soldiers arrived at the park this morning. They had blistered their feet and were sent on by freight.

RAILROAD MEN ONLY.

They Are Steered Business Men and Have Cleared $200 Each.

The following well-known railroad men, including Superintendents, Trainmasters, Dispatchers, Conductors, Engineers, &c., are patrons of the Arcade Music Store, and with one exception, all own "Kimball" pianos today:

C. E. Walton.
F. S. O'Rourke.
Thos. Watson.
W. W. Waggoner.
Jas. T. Callahan.
Fred. F. Ogler.
L. T. Estry.
Jas. E. Lindsey.
O. Owens.
W. Watterson.
J. P. Morrilat.
E. H. Rogers.
Jacob Roehl.
J. Mooney.
Frank Parrant.
H. D. Ross.

The above are Mr. Fisher's railroad sales only. He has sold Kimball pianos to doctors, lawyers, bankers, merchants and nearly every kind of business man in the city since starting the Arcade sale. The total number of sales up to 6 o'clock last evening reached 118, amounting to $24,731.

This has all been done in less than sixty days and probably has never before been equaled in the history of the piano business, and is a winning record for the "Kimball." Mr. Fisher expects to have the remainder of his stock closed out by tomorrow evening.

Peter Jackson.

San Francisco, Cal., May 18.—Peter Jackson, the pugilist, arrived yesterday from the east and will remain three weeks.

There is much complaint about the way the contractor has torn up East Columbia street. It is almost impossible to approach the city from Lakeside. Someone who has authority should look after this matter.

Sunday's Sentinel.

Tomorrow's SENTINEL, as is usual with our Saturday's edition, will be an unusually interesting number and will contain several readable articles. Saturday's paper is a great favorite and is rapidly finding its way into every home. Our aim is to give all the news, local and telegraph, and our growing circulation attests the fact that our efforts are meeting with public appreval.

One of the articles of special interest will be "Life on a Locomotive," giving the reminiscences of a veteran engineer and his hair breadth escapes while pursuing his dangerous occupation.

The harrowing experience of a young stepmother is told in another article. It details how she was visited by the ghost of her predecessor and repeatedly warned to treat the children well. It is a regular "haunted house story."

Bill Nye, our humorist, writes a very amusing letter from Kentucky, telling how the man with the message always has a hearing and returning his thanks to Sam Jones for the use of his tabernacle and pulpit at Hopkinsville.

"Patriotic Pilgrims" is the title of another article detailing the summer tour that a party of Philadelphians will take, following the line of Washington's march from Boston to the continental capital.

Although his tabernacle has been destroyed by fire, Rev. Dr. Talmage will continue to preach to his SENTINEL readers and tomorrow's paper will contain one of his most able sermons.

The SENTINEL tomorrow will contain other entertaining articles, making it a paper that will find a welcome in every family.

Let the building boom be pushed so that we can give employment to our workingmen.

The Ohio legislature will adjourn next Monday and the people of that state will rejoice.

D. J. MURPHY has sold the Pauli News to James M. Compton, who has assumed editorial control.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RICHARDS precipitated a row in the Ohio legislature by intimating that senators were open to bribery.

PORTOLUMS of Georgia nominated Judge Hines, a former democrat, for governor. A full state ticket was placed in the field.

The democracy of Jay and Adams counties have nominated D. B. Heller for judge and H. H. Harlond for prosecuting attorney.

IF CUBA and his army have decided to stay in Washington until the senate does something for Cuban independence they will have to look for winter quarters.

The candidates for the county offices in both parties are cultivating the acquaintance of our farmers just now and are out in the country every day looking after their fences.

NEARLY 30,000 of the unemployed are marching in the direction of Washington, and when this great army is encamped around the capitol, what a nice time the officers and farmers will have with the commonwealers.

MANY a congressman is in misery these days. The state of his pocketbook will not permit him, under the new docking rule, to leave Washington for Cuba and at the same time he knows that his fields are being invaded by rivals who may at any moment capture the whole herd of delegates.

OUR fears an echo of hard times among the people lately returned from the winter resorts of Florida. There are complaints of exorbitant charges at hotels and of the determination of everybody in some Florida towns to pluck the northern stranger. "The season is short and we have to make the most of it," is the explanation at St. Augustine. "When do you do in the summer and autumn?" asked a visitor. "Oh, nothing," was the reply, "just wait for you folks to come back."

PRESIDENT M. M. GARLAND, of the Amalgamated association, speaking to a reporter at Cleveland in regard to the probability of a strike of iron and steel workers, said: "Of course I do not know what strikes will occur this year, because the convention has not yet reached the order of business in which the policy for the ensuing year is to be outlined, but judging from the policy of the past it will be pretty safe to conclude that if all mill owners refuse to sign the scale, then there will be a national strike."

GOVERNOR HOGG has joined a prosecution to the following men of Texas, advising them to have nothing to do with the Coxey scheme, which he justly describes as wild, improvident, unpatriotic and dangerous. They are for better off at home in Texas, he tells them, than they would find themselves in Washington. Governor Hogg certainly states the case. Coxeyism has gone far enough. It is time to check it, before it assumes more formidable proportions. It is an erratic and wholly unpracticable movement, captivated by individuals who in no sense represent the industrial interests of this country.

THE state board of health is waiting to see if Chicago proposes to cure people for smallpox cases before a quarantine against the city is established. At the recent conference there of state boards of health it was proposed to divide Chicago into districts containing not more than ten thousand people each, to make house to house inspections, enforce vaccination rules and isolate smallpox patients. Were those precautions taken it will not be necessary to establish a quarantine against the city.

Training Your Life Work.

Assuming that there is something radically wrong with our industrial system, the present is the time to inquire into the cause and strive for relief. There is no institution more popularly believed to work for the general good of the toiling masses than the common school system. Its benefits are its endeavor to help forward the parent and child, and it has long been an agencies of faith in the existence of the body that is not educative is the best opinions in life for everybody. In the present state of affairs of helpless mess on the part of thousands who would be glad to labor and can find no employment, may be an argument for a wider distribution of knowledge. Why should a man in front of the cyclopian car be afraid? The matter is not difficult to find. Are the idle ones those who have had no school opportunities, and is there a short supply of workers in those fields where practical education is a prerequisite? Is it a failure because he has not been "educated" into some subsidiary career? Is anybody ever "educated" into a career?

It is possible to overestimate all mankind, and education as a cause of prosperity and happiness is among the overestimates. It is from ignorance to draw out, to lead forth—and that education which brings success in life is the kind which cultivates and develops the powers of the individual. It is there in the child and the work of the teacher is to bring it to the light. The multitudes of supposing that education is a putting in of something not there before is a frequent one, and it places all the burden of failure on the teachers. Their responsibilities are truly great, if the child of today spring from a race of energy in beating knowledge into the brains of American youths. But it might be well to foreshadow that impossibility to the mother to the father to inquire why their child has been ill-fitted to their longings in the first place.

For school guardians to count heads and say, "Behold, boys and girls must be educated," is easy. To say, "Are these boys and girls so endowed that such education will fall for after self duplicate at home and might lead to unpleasant daughter. But the problem must be met sooner or later. The young men and women after the hums is done, after scholastic prizes have been awarded, after fellow hopes have been aroused and native powers are warped and blighted, may not be lessee of despair, "What is worth while to spoil the workmen in us and bring out miserable scholars?" Better would it be to have left the powers of youth and school guardians who can weld their bobby for education which does not lead forth and draw out, but only clogs and embarrasses nature in its efforts to unfold and produce the perfect man.

A Terrible Remedy.

It is probable that 10,000 people perished by the recent earthquake in Venezuela and the adjacent islands of the Caribbean. The cities of Merida, Leguatchan, Chiguara and San Juan are reported as having been totally destroyed. Appalling as this may be, it sinks into comparative insignificance beside some of the terrible shocks of the past. The great earthquake in Calabria something like 100 years ago, which was felt nearly all over Europe, caused the death of 100,000 persons, and the memorable Lisbon disaster destroyed some 60,000 persons in six minutes.

Naturally we are impelled to ask, Why does Providence permit these terrible earthquakes? But such rules never tell the reason of any inexplicable proposition and are not instructive in any way. It appears that they are the instruments by means of which the solid crust of the globe is kept in a state to follow down after the shrinking nucleus. Little by little the contraction goes on, and this is the work which would otherwise be attended by terrible convulsions overspreading the whole earth. The remedy is an awful one, but it is hardly worse than to suffer it.

Herbert E. Ridor of New York city believes he has found an underground electric valley that will tell, so to speak, by days the cities which in this country are to be destroyed by earthquakes. They will be indicated by brackets that are suspected to be glass pedestals. The trolley wheels pass along the rails and take the electricity from them. Mr. Ridor has also an electric heater for glass so that it will automatically cut off to stop the current when it is not wanted.

The Reprobate, Pa., Conference of the German Baptist (Dunkard) church will open May 24th. The Nickel Plate Road offers a rate of one fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale May 21st to 24th. A Dalrymple's Opinion.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me so much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I use bottles in all—as occasion requires, and always keep a bottle of it in my home. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and pain Balm is the best liniment I have ever met with. W. A YANKEE IN GRAY

CHAPTER XVI.

While darkness was growing on to join Lee most of the country was unlocked and it lit in the valley. The Shenandoah guards, which had dropped the Hill corps transferred to the valley, were a portion of Imboden's command. The Federals poured into the Shenandoah and Loring from the north and secured the passes, leaving a regiment to Confederate's cavalry men to Stanton. Neither side was strong enough to possess and hold the valley. The Confederates had not expected such a force ready to Richmond. The Federal occupation defended one of the roads to Washington. There were scouting and skirmishing for several days, but nothing like a general battle resulted. Both commanders had been instructed to avoid this and watch the mighty movements developing elsewhere.

What is a Little like—a battle in which 10,000 men fall in their tracks to die with the roar of the guns still sounding in their ears? Let us never more lie to or for bones cursing and groaning and praying with the pain of their wounds! McClellan was on both sides of the Chickahominy, with the spires of Richmond in view. His front was miles long and defended by rifle pits, earthworks, felled trees and entanglements. Numbers, 150,000. Federals faced Lee along this line. Behind them were camps and wagon trains and field hospitals and supplies enough for the ground for miles and miles.

McClellan was about to attack. He was on a waiting his order when Lee fell upon his wing at Mechanicsville. That was a fight. The fight at Gaines' Bridge, directly in front of his center, was a piece of strategy. The result upon his wing at Cold Harbor was to annihilate him. The battle at Frazier's farm was another piece of strategy, and there the great leaps of Jackson's men failed to connect with Longstreet's. There was the ruins of millions of dollars lying about, and nearly all must be sacrificed. Withdrawal must not been ordered. Lee knew that if he and Jackson would assume the aggressive and seek to utterly annihilate the Federal army.

The assault of next morning began almost before the clears of Hood's Texans had died away. Whole regiments were shot down in the woods. The Confederates were repulsed again and again by the fire which seemed to burn them off the faces of the earth, but those who lived came on again and again with a cheer and a tone. Only their leaders knew why this terrible sacrifice was being offered up to the god of war. Lee had planned to crush McClellan's right wing and then by way of Bowen's gap to fall upon McClellan's flank at Cold Harbor. The sacrifice in front was to give Jackson time and to mislead the enemy.

And so Longstreet and Hill advanced again and again to the sacrifice until their dead and wounded outnumbered the living. Jackson's men were fighting hour and hour. By and by it was only an hour high. Then the roar of battle along the front suddenly ceased. All of the artillery fire was concentrated behind a dozen guns were pouring in their fire. Jackson's men were storming and cheering. When the Confederates panicked over the ground, they were appalled at the sudden smoke. When the last heap of dead lay in front of the guns of Longstreet, McClellan was ready. His lines were abandoned, and his army was in retreat, but there was no panic. Lee's army was in no condition to pursue. It had hoped to find a fleeing mob, but when ever they attacked it was to be beaten back by men as valiant as Napoleon ever saw on the field. By daily nightfall the smoke drifted in the valley to the right and left. Troops may stand or lie down, keep the cover of a breastwork or house at all. They may charge or be charged upon ground or they may fall back to new line. However the battle goes, the soldier sees only what takes place in his immediate front.

And how like a quarreling of a battle changes the nature of a man! While he is resting for it to begin every man is strong to its utmost. He may be overwrought, but the hour of waiting he denies it to himself. He trembles. He doubts himself. He turns pale and he knows it. He wishes he had not come to new line. However the battle goes, the soldier sees only what takes place in his immediate front.

Jackson's men rushed to the attack.

The camps from sight of the highways. Here and there in forest and field were great heaps of forage for the animals, and here and there great heaps of food ammunition for cannon and musketry. There was the ruins of millions of dollars lying about, and nearly all must be sacrificed. Withdrawal must not been ordered. Lee knew that if he and Jackson would assume the aggressive and seek to utterly annihilate the Federal army.

They went beside the dead and search each pocket.

ghoul stealing away from the dying camps into the darkness and strifes and corpses and groans to rob and to plunder. Every army has its human hyenas. They may have fought bravely during the battle, but as night falls and the work of killing the ghoulish instinct cannot be resisted. They kneel beside the dead and search each pocket. Their knees are in the earth clotted with blood, but they do not skrink. Their hands touch gaping wounds and are smeared with blood, but there is no shudder. They search and rob and plunder as blood stained, but on the morrow they will wash away the stains.

"Here—this way—for God's sake, give me a drink!"

It is a wounded man who has heard the ghoul moving about. No matter whether he is a friend or foe, he may be dragged and robbed. He may plead in vain and begins a search. The wounded man may quickly submit, hoping at least to be rewarded with water enough to moisten his parched tongue and burning throat. If so, he is spared. If not, strong fingers seize his throat and fasten there until he is dead, or his own hysterical fear drives him to desperate resistance. No one will ask their names, no one search their pockets. Side by side, friend and foe, they lie, with dew, rain and then a covering of dirt in hasty graves. Years later the ironclad holden by bones and bolt will be opened, and the bones found not to be carried to the spot where a single monument must serve to cherish the memory of thousands.

CHAPTER XVII.

The name of Michael Percy had been given to the house in the mountains to which the Percys retreated from Winchester. The first idea was to make use of it for only a few weeks—until the war was over. Nobody in the south after the Confederate victory at Bull Run doubted that peace would be long coming. They were hardly settled when Jackson recaptured Winchester. They had scarcely heard this news when the town was retaken by a Federal force. In the first battle for possession Percy was on the mission and all outbuildings were burned to the ground. Others shared the same fate. Indeed the flames of fire were kindled that for hours before war was hardly more than a holiday.

For a few days after burning of this disaster the Percys talked of leaving Virginia for some point farther south, but just as they had made up their minds to go Mrs. Percy fell seriously ill, and that countenance discontinued all plans for a long journey.

The servants who had fled from the house at Winchester did not return, but with hundreds of other colored people they gathered in the valley to Percy and thence to Washington. Uncle Ben was the only one left, and for the presence of Mrs. Baxter the ladies would have been left alone with the slaves, male and female, were escaping from the villages and plantations in droves, and the two or three women who remained indoors under Ben's nominal service at the Haven disappeared with the first dark night.

While Marian Percy felt distrust of Mrs. Baxter, the woman was as respectful in demeanor and manner and herself in all ways so genial that the feeling rather diminished than increased. Uncle Ben, on the contrary, came to hate her worse and worse as time passed on. He could not conceal his dislike of her, though he restrained his tongue from expressions. He realized that under the circumstances it was not only policy but duty to do so. One day he found opportunity to say to Marian:

"Miss Sunshine, I don't like what I'don told yo' befo' we left Winchester 'bout dat Missis Baxter!"

"Yes, she replied, "but I think you were mistaken. She is a little queer about some things, but on the whole a very good woman. I don't know how we could have got along without her."

"Well, I don't reckon, " said Uncle Ben as he thoughtfully scratched his head, "but don't on keepin' things I can't just make out. Wise yo' recken dan Ida Wylie is?"

"Her husband probably."

"Den why don't dem fellers cum wif yo' mail when I also bring it up? I'se seen a white man and a nigger in a wood who brought letters to her three or four times. I'se seen her write letters two or three times, but she neber put 'em in de mail. I'se seen her write letters two or three times, but she neber put 'em in de mail. What all dat mean, Miss Sunshine?"

"Oh, it's just her queer way, Uncle Ben, and there is nothing to worry about. Mrs. Baxter is not a spy, and there is nothing to be learned from her. Marian's statements filled her with surprise.

"Den I'se gwine to keep my eyes open, an' I'se gwine to keep my ears open, an' I'se gwine to sabe dat white gemman from all dis, Miss Sunshine. Sumthin bound to come. White folks don' act dis way unless dey'se up to sumthin. I hain't gwine to say nuffin to nobody, but I'se gwine to be prepar'd for trouble!"

When Mrs. Percy fell ill Ben secretly sent the mourning for several days in fear of an old-time negro woman who secretly had no longing for liberty, and such assistance as the neighbors could render was freely given. Those of them who had been called lived seven miles away, and the old man had frequently to ride back and forth over a highway to bring Marian her messages. He began to catch sight of a man and woman on horseback at a distance, and they disappeared in a thicket. He was close enough to be satisfied that the woman was Mrs. Baxter, and that the man was a Confederate officer, and their anxiety to avoid him aroused all his suspicions. He intended to communicate with Miss Marian at once, but circumstances prevented. He was on his way to Winchester, he informed her that the Federals then held nearly all that district, when he was stopped by a party of Confederate cavalry. He thought there was every prospect of their permanent occupation. He kindly offered her all possible assistance if she desired to send a message to Ida Wylie, and in addition, but it was plain that the mother was then too ill to undertake even the shortest journey. He begged her to remember that a message would be sent, and he would be accepted, she nevertheless felt that it was policy to receive him courteously. He handle in a few days night lead to arousing a new feeling of cordiality against Reuben. On his part the captain was careful to say nothing that would wound or offend, and his hour's visit was therefore a very agreeable one. Howestealed his sympathies, offered to do anything in his power to relieve their anxiety and was away with a salute of satisfaction on his face. He argued that Marian was wavering in her faith in Reuben, and his tact and circumstances would bring about the change he desired.

Man's most frequent boast is that he can read a woman's heart, and the secret it is in that he is silliest deceived. Few women can read and understand themselves.

During the captain's visit Marian had been forced to notice the absence of Mrs. Baxter. She seemed indifferent into a new being—smiling, laughing and appearing to be full of joy and soundhearted. When the visitor had departed, she was lonsome in his praise, and for the first time since coming to the Haven Marian felt that she was alone. The result was a sudden relief, and a few days with them completely. It is made for bowel complaint and nothing else. It never fails. For sale by druggists.

Mother, Be sure and use "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for your children while cutting teeth. It is the best remedy for all bowel troubles.

A Popular Remedy.

The promptness and certainty of its cure have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and to the most effectual remedy known for these diseases. Mr. C. B Main, of Union City, Pa., says: "I have a great sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I warrant every bottle and have never heard of one failing to give entire satisfaction." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Change of Time.

May 20 the Nickel Plate road will change time. The new summer school ule will afford the same number of trains as at present, including through sleeping car service between Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Boston. The improvements will enhance the shortening of the time on some of the through trains between Buffalo and Chicago. 15, 23d, wlt.

"His hour's visit was therefore a very agreeable one."

"way, he understands Ike's way, and I orter feel hardwise, hain't I?"

"I can't understand how he stands in Ike's way."

"Nor I either, but that's what he says, and that's what Captain Wyls says, and him just orter be doin' over in the Shenandoah valley what he belongs to. He was a major in a regular Yankee spy, and him's mean as Pizen.

GEORGE KUNTZ DEAD.

One of the Veterans in the Pittsburg Shops.

Severe, Storms Along the Wabash Road—A Western Rain War Imminent—Local Gossip.

George Kuntz, aged seventy-four died last night at the home of Jacob Schuler, No. 50 Maumee avenue, after an illness of eight months. He leaves two children, a married daughter in Germany and George Kuntz, whose whereabouts are unknown here. Mrs. Kuntz died in this city twelve years ago. The deceased was an upholsterer by trade and for twenty-four years worked in the Pittsburg shops. He was a member of the St. Mary's Catholic church and of the benevolent society of St. Charles. He was also a member of the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association and held a life policy, payable to his daughter, for $500. The funeral will be under the auspices of the St. Mary's Benevolent society and will take place Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will also turn out and probably march in a body.

Matt. Backes and his family, of Wellsville, Ohio, are expected in the city tomorrow, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hanley. Mr. Backes is foreman of the Pennsylvania boiler shops at Wellsville.

The Illinois Central will soon be in the field as a competitor for Omaha and Nebraska business. But fifty miles of the road is to be built to complete its line in that section, and work on the extension is being pushed.

The Wabash railway company has shortened its running time between St. Louis and Chicago thirty-five minutes. Its competitors are not pleased, and some fast time between those points need not be a surprise.

F. P. Sargent, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, has been the recipient of a number of telegrams congratulating him on the results of the investigation of the manner he has handled the strikes.

The National League of Commercial Travelers is urging the western lines to raise the limit of free baggage from 150 to 300 pounds and to issue special tickets or 2 reduced basis of 2½ per cent. Passenger men say it is not probable the request will be granted.

The absentee list of the Pittsburg car shops show the following persons off duty, all being disabled by sickness or accident: J. C. Maury, H. C. Schuster, C. Erismull, J. Potter, A. Teader, W. Heuschen, W. E. Schaefer, J. Tany, J. Laufla and E. K. Renfew.

The Penn Journal says: "Thomas Hill, formerly superintendent of the organ factory at Fort Wayne, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and is stopping at Mrs. Robert Miller's, on East Third street. He is to take N. A. Hull's place at the Howe factory as a designer."

Special Weather Caldwell, appointed by the United States court to conduct the sale of the East Tennessee railroad, has issued an order fixing July 7 as the day for the sale. The sale will be at the road's depot in Knoxville. The property must bring $1,500,000, with page $150,000 cash bonus. The reorganization committee, as agents and bondholders, will be the only bidders, and the new owners will be operating the system within sixty days.

It is stated that the Pennsylvania company has under consideration reducing the work in shops on lines east of Pittsburg to three days of eight hours each per week, as has been done on the lines west of Pittsburg. All depends on the results of the coal conference now in progress.

At the convention of the Switchmen's Aid association, now in session at Evansville, a knotty question is up for consideration. A portion of the members want to continue making it compulsory that a member belong to the insurance department, while others want it kept optional.

The Wabash Plain Dealer says: "General Foreman W. A. Wofford, of the Big Four shop, drove down from Fort Wayne Monday evening, leaving that place at 7 in the morning and reaching here at 7:30 p. m. On the way he got lost three times and traveled, all told, about seventy-three miles. His little mare, 'Topsy,' was almost fagged out upon arriving here."

An associated Press dispatch from Denver says: "The report that the Union Pacific is offering a free ride around the mountain loop for four of the big conventions to be held at Denver this summer, if it proves true, will probably result in such a passenger rate war as has not been known in a decade. The Rock Island has taken up the glove by offering republican national league excursionists a free ride to the summit of Pike's Peak. The Santa Fe may carry its passengers free to Grand Junction and return and the Missouri Pacific may go into a deal with the Rio Grande and make circle rides.

Indications now are that the Western freight war will end with May 26. The presidents of the Chicago and Northwestern, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, the Chicago Great Western and the Chicago and Rock Island have absolutely agreed to advance rates on that date, whether their competitors do or not. It is stated that the Chicago and Alton yesterday expressed sympathy with the movement, and would on that date take the same action as did the five lines named above, but does so with an understanding that should competitors act dishonorably in the matter it will again drop rates.

The storm last night was particularly severe along the line of the Wabash road and telegraph poles and wires were prostrated at several points. At Kingsbury, on the Chicago-Detroit line, a freight car was blown out on the main track and struck east at a rapid rate. No. 53, westbound passenger train, picked up the car a few miles east of Kingsbury, causing slight damage to the engine. The car was overturned into the ditch, and the train proceeded on its way. Twelve telegraph poles and their wires were broken between Kingsbury and Logansport. Communication was interrupted for a few hours. At Buck Creek, Andrews and other points on the main line the telegraph wires were down also, but no other damage resulted.

SENT TO JAIL.

Two Election Commissioners Punished for Contempt of Court.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Judge Chetlain today found Election Commissioners W. Henry Schuster and P. H. Kennan guilty of contempt of court in refusing to produce ballots as ordered by the court. He fined them $1,000 each and ordered them committed to jail until the fine should be paid. Deputy sheriffs were ordered to serve the writs. Papers were prepared in habeas corpus proceedings and application for a writ were made. The court had ordered the commissioners to produce, for the special grand jury now investigating alleged election frauds, the ballots cast at the last election. Acting under legal advice the commissioners refused, and the contempt proceedings resulted.

Surgeon General Dead.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, May 18.—Col. Joseph K. Bailey, assistant surgeon general of the Texas division of the army and medical director of the department of Texas, stationed here, died of heart failure on a Southern Pacific train west of here. He was returning from an inspection tour of the posts in the west part of Texas. His remains were brought here and will be shipped to Portfort, Ky., for interment.

AID TO RAILROADS.

Mr. John Drehmbiss in Opposition to the Appropriation.

He Believes the Township Ought Not to Vote $250,000 in Aid of the New Railroad.

EDITOR SENTINEL:

Your editorial in THE SENTINEL of the 16th inst., relating to the question of voting an appropriation of $250,000 to aid in the construction of the shops of the "Fort Wayne and Eastern railroad" very properly enjoins the voter to examine the matter very carefully before going to the polls. "Be sure you are right and then go ahead," is the injunction.

In order to examine intelligently every voter should read the petition calling for the vote over before his eyes; it contains everything that we are asked to vote for, to wit: "To absolutely donate $150,000 on condition that said company build its railroad into Wayne township, make Fort Wayne a divisional point, build an office building with telegraph office connected and shall send, operate and maintain one machine shop 100x300 feet, one boiler and blacksmith shop, combined 80x150 feet, one store room and oil house 30x50 feet, also one round house containing twelve stalls, all to be constructed of brick and covered with slate roof.

For a real appreciation of the "ranksome" of the foregoing conditions, it is necessary to read it several times. This proposition is a downright insult to this community. Any intelligent, sane person who will carefully read the petition will be amazed at the cheek displayed by just exactly fifteen non-residents and about half a dozen residents who, believing in "jays," and Fort Wayne a "jay" town, are endeavoring to have some fun with us at our expense.

You should not lose sight of the fact that it would "be just too funny" to have some responsible builders figure on the cost of construction of shops and buildings as described (without plans or specifications) in said petition—then sit down in some quiet place—in undisturbed meditation—very soon see a case" with whiskers on, in hiding behind a wood pile.

Experience is the best teacher. Fort Wayne and Wayne township are now paying annually interest on about $400,000 voted to fraud and deception, it is not likely that an additional $150,000 to the same very apparent end will be donated.

How any set of men, knowing of the general intelligence characterizing this community, can hold us in such unwarranted disrespect as to expect a favorable vote on the rank and flimsy a proposition as is projected by the eight men mile "Fort Wayne and Eastern railroad" is beyond comprehension. For unvailed cheek it stands out lonesome and alone. JOHN DREHMBISS.

ABSENT FROM HIS OWN TRIAL.

Testimony in the Greensburg Murder Broken Out.

GREENSBURG, Ind., May 18.—This is the third day of the Drake murder trial, and the defense is now examining witnesses for the purpose of showing the insanity of the murderer. Yesterday after the prosecution had been cross-examining a witness for half an hour, it was discovered that Drake, the defendant, had not been brought into court from the jail. The attorneys for the defense at once filed a motion to discharge the jury from any further consideration of the case, and to discharge the defendant from custody because of the fact that he was absent against his will while the testimony against him was being taken. The court ordered the evidence stricken out and overruled the motion. The men will not go to the jury before Monday.

BEATS NELLIE BLY.

George Griffiths Goes Around the World in Sixty-five Days.

LONDON, May 18.—George Griffiths, who started from London at 11 o'clock on the morning of March 12 to circumnavigate the world and to beat the record of seventy-four days made by Nellie Bly, of New York, arrived here, having accomplished his feat in sixty-four days, eleven hours and twenty minutes. Griffiths expected at the start to cover the distance in sixty days. He had previously been around the world three times.

INSANE MAN AT THE THROTTLE.

Escaped Lunatic Causes an Exciting Scene at a St. Louis Union Depot.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—Frank Rodgers, of Sedalia, an engineer, made insane by sickness, escaped from the Missouri Pacific hospital, where he was confined, a few days ago. His whereabouts were unknown until yesterday, when he climbed into the cab of his old engine as it stood puffing in the yards at the Union depot ready to take a train. "Well, boys, we've got the signal, let's pull out," he said, and laid his hand on the throttle. The engineer and fireman coughlihim and called two officers. Rodgers struggled desperately with all four, declaring that he would kill them unless they allowed him to take out his train on time. He was finally overpowered.

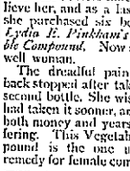
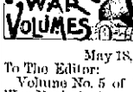
When a Woman Has Constant Backache she cannot walk or stand, her duties are heavy burdens, and she is utterly miserable.



The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. Backache is the sure symptom. For years Sarah Holstein, who lives at 7 Perry St., in Lowell, Mass., suffered with falling of the womb. The best doctors failed to relieve her, and as a last resort she purchased six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now she is a well woman.

"For the dreadful pain in her back stopped after taking the second bottle. She wishes she had taken it sooner, and saved both money and years of suffering. This Vegetable Compound is the one unfailing remedy for female complaints.



HARPER'S WAR VOLUMES

May 18, 1894.

To The Editor:

Volume No. 5 of Harper War Book just came, and it surprised me greatly to find the large colored map. Accept thanks for your promptness. I thought the other parts couldn't be beat, but they seem to grow better. If others appreciate the value of what you are giving for only 10 cents, you must sell a heap of them, for if anybody once sees these War Volumes they must be as much surprised as I have been at so much, and so good, for such a low price. You deserve a vote of thanks for what you are doing. The good done by placing this great Harper history of the civil war in reach of every man, woman and child cannot be calculated.

Yours very truly,
F. B. D. (F. Ben Davis).

We offer to our subscribers the most beautiful art work ever published at a merely nominal sum. This is an entirely new work, every plate being made especially for it. It is called

"FAMOUS PAINTINGS OF THE WORLD."

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

It exemplifies the most ATTRACTIVE, INTERESTING, PURE and INSPIRING qualities of contemporaneous art. It contains a superb introduction by the greatest living novelist, GEN. LEW. WALLACE.

GEMS OF MODERN ART,

Reproduced by the perfected half-tone process, having the appearance of the most perfect photographs. So large a collection of photographs of paintings could not be purchased for less than $1,000, and yet these photographic reproductions are offered to the public at the insignificant price of TEN CENTS for each portfolio.

Every picture is described by the brightest and best of America's writers on art subjects. These descriptions are not technical or prolix, but bright and interesting.

The materials for this publication have been gathered out of the most Famous Galleries and finest Private Collections in the Old World and the New.

All eminent artists are represented, but the minor artists and young aspirants for artistic honors—whose names are not yet household words have not been overlooked. The Committee of Selection have often chosen a meritorious and pleasing picture by a comparatively unknown artist in preference to an unattractive subject by a painter of prominence. This magnificent art work is in itself a Home Gallery of Famous Masterpieces.

Do not fail to secure the first portfolio at once. The first Portfolio contains sixteen reproductions of great paintings, and also the magnificent Introduction by GENERAL LEW. WALLACE.

All the future portfolios will contain sixteen reproductions of MASTERPIECES OF MODERN ART.

How to Secure This Series: Clip three "Famous Paintings of the World" coupons from the third page of this paper and send them to gether with ten cents to the Portfolio Department of "The Sentinel" and the part called for will be sent to your address by mail.

The first three portfolios can be had by calling at the office.

The entire series consists of 20 parts, each part contains 16 photographic reproductions of great paintings of the world.

Address all mail to "The Sentinel" Portfolio Department, including no other business in portfolio orders.

Mrs. D. S. Wakenight, of Pittsburg, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Rowe, of West Washington street.

Miss Augie Chapin left today for Ann Arbor to be in attendance at the May Music Festival held there.

The Winchester Democrat says: "Mr. and Mrs. Noble, of Fort Wayne, visited N. H. Berrick and wife last week."

At her home, 30 Thompson avenue, Miss Ida Burns is entertaining Mr. George W. Robinson, of Indianapolis.

The English club will be entertained by Mrs. John Jacobs tomorrow afternoon, at her home, on Spy Run avenue.

Mrs. W. H. Watt will return tomorrow evening from French Lick Springs, where she has been spending the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barrett will return tomorrow evening from West Baden, where they have been spending two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Siegler, of Hackeridge street, entertained at tea last evening in honor of Mr. Thompson, of Warren, Ind.

The Logansport Reporter says: "Miss Edna Gorrells, of Fort Wayne, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs F. D. Wright, of Michigan avenue."

Mr. Robert Robertson and sister, Miss Anna Robertson, and Mr. Max Hilts, were visitors at Washington Wednesday. They are expected home this evening.

Mrs. Charlotte Deverell, of South Sea England, will arrive in the city Monday evening to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. D. L. Harding, of West DeWald street.

The engagement of Miss Helen Stringer, of West DeWald street, to Mr. William Glenn has been quietly announced. The wedding will take place the first week in June.

The young ladies of the Westminster graduating class have chosen as their class pin a small gold anchor with the "W" and "Westminster." Their class colors are pink and white.

Miss Anna Freitag Forking, of South Wayne, has so far recovered from an attack of rheumatism that she will leave tomorrow for Chicago to accept an engagement with the Schiffler opera Co.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Third Presbyterian church, met this afternoon in regular session in the church parlors. Papers were read and other business of importance was transacted.

The Plymouth Democrat says: "Mrs. T. H. Habercorn and daughters, of Fort Wayne, visited over Sunday with her father, John Hoham, and family, on their way to Maxinkuckee, where they will spend the summer with her brother-in-law, J. W. Palmer."

An entertainment will be given at G. A. R. hall on Thursday evening, May 24, under the auspices of the ladies' Aid society of the Sons of Veterans. Literary exercises, supper and a short dance program will be the features of the evening. The public is invited.

Misses Constance and Georgia Lombard, Orson Bass, Mary Evans and Minnie Hoffman, Messrs. Howell Rockhill, Robert Carnahan, Percy C. Smith, M. W. Fay and Eugene Olds composed a circus party last evening. A supper and dance at the Fort Wayne club concluded a very pleasant evening.

Miss Alice Klingensmith, of Callensburg, Pa., who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Patry, of 432 Broadway, has returned home after a very pleasant visit. While here she made many friends, who regret very much to see her leave our pleasant city, and hope for her return in the near future.

Wednesday afternoon, at Plymouth Ind., the home of the bride's parents, occurred the marriage of Miss Mabel Borton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Borton, to Mr. Ralph Eddeens Beeke, of Wilmette, Ill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Eldowes, of Geneva, Ill., assisted by Rev. W. O. Lattimore, of Plymouth. Miss Borton is one of Plymouth's most attractive and charming young ladies.

A special program has been arranged for the services at the Trinity Episcopal church for Sunday in celebration of the "Golden Jubilee." Monday evening a reception will be given in the parish house for all parishoners past and present and invited guests. Papers on "Woman's Work in the Parish" will be read by the daughters of today and musical selections will be rendered under the direction of the special committee.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock the marriage of Mr. L. Kleinrichert and Miss Anna Dontzel was solemnized at St. Mary's church, the Rev. Father Oechtering officiating. Lawrence is one of New Haven's progressive young business men, and his bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dontzel, living west of that town. The happy couple were given a grand reception at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony.

Miss Hulda Henker will give a closing reception on Monday evening, May 21, at Sons of Columbus hall.

WORLD'S FAIR LEATHER COUCH.

Many of our readers will remember the great display at the World's Fair of Karpen Bros., the great wholesale manufacturing Upholsterers. In the display was the most magnificent dark green Leather Couch we have ever seen. Many orders were taken for this couch at $150 each.

But times are hard and the company recently sold us some of these couches—one for each of our stores—at a price that enables us to sell it to you at $65, which is less than half former price. Secure this lounge and you will have the handsomest couch in the city, with World's Fair associations to go with it. See it in our Court street show window.
